A year of headlines for Wilmington

by Arlene Surprenant
1992 was the year Wilmington made headlines, not only in local papers, but in Boston papers and on TV as well. Many of those headlines cast the town in a poor light and overlooked the positive, such as local citizens going out of their way to improve the lot of those struggling to get by.

Wilmington's top news story — the football hazing incident last August and the recall of school committeemen Shirley Callan and Linda McMenimen — continues to unfold. The story has dominated the media since late September when Police Chief Bobby Stewart first began his investigation. The incident has polarized the town and many feel it will not be over until February's recall election is past.

Vying for media attention was the legal battle between selectmen Mike McCoy and Bob Cain, with the court ordering McCoy to settle for $17,000, and the trials of optometrist Paul Gould and VFW Commander Elmer Parker. Both men were found guilty by the courts, Gould of indecent assault and Parker of racial discrimination. A tanker rollover on Rt.93 caused a traffic snarl throughout town in October and led to environmental specialists gathering at the scene to prevent any contamination of the nearby Ipswich River and Reading's water supply.

Top Stories in Local Media

The ongoing debate about the need for sewers and the possibility of changing the sewer funding method drew alot of attention in 1992, especially in light of a 30 percent hike in October's sewer bills due to an increase in the MWRA assessment. A Sewer Financial Advisory Board was formed in January to review options other than the betterment method. The board expects to bring a viable plan before town meeting in April, 1993.

The town lost its appeal of a 1989 Appellate Tax Board decision and was ordered to pay Avco (now Textron) a $1.5 million abatement. This came in a tight budget year which saw the adoption of a "lean" $33.6 million budget including a $12.1 million school budget. To save money and streamline operations, Town Manager Michael Cairn merged the conservation and planning departments and placed the water department under the town DPW. He is also seeking ways to hold the line on escalating trash fees. However, some residents feel the positive steps taken by the town manager were overshadowed by the $10,000 raise granted him by the board of selectmen.

A nursing home under construction on West Street drew fire for allegedly increasing flooding problems on Westdale Avenue and violating health regulations. Both charges were said to be false, though neighbors of the project are still protesting the home's impact and seeking help with poor drainage in the area.

Selectmen sounded off on a new stop sign at the corner of Lowell and Main, gas was found to be leaking from the Sunoco Station into a nearby manhole, and the state DPW promised to fast track improvements to the Rt125/Andover Street intersection. Several "vicious" dogs were either banned from town or ordered restrained, the redevelopment authority began reviewing a $1.2 million conceptual plan to widen and improve Rt.38, and fires impacted the E.C. Whitney and Sons company in February and destroyed the Church Street Hardware/Drapery Boutique building at year's end.

Political Scene

On the political scene, 800 citizens were impacted by a redistricting change in January and Wilmington followed the national trend in voting in Bill Clinton for President. The Republican Party made waves this year, especially with a strong vote for Congressman Peter Torkildsen, while the Democrats celebrated the 200th anniversary of their party.

In a seesaw local election, two of five incumbents were ousted from office and three newcomers — Gerald Duggan, Brad Jackson, and Linda McMenimen — were elected to town boards. The April town meeting zipped through in five hours defeating only one article to rezone land on Lowell Street. An article to allow for the creation of accessory apartments passed with little comment as did many transfers of town land.

Local Boards

Two boards — the school committee and the housing authority — monopolized headlines this year with their endless in-fighting.

While parents concentrated on a postcard campaign to bring in more state aid for education, school committeemen concentrated on holding the line on spending, bickered over most agenda items, and made successful attempts to oust both their attorney and superintendent. Though Wilmington Community Schools got underway after a two year hiatus, it wasn't long before WCS made the news with a management dispute which further split the school board. The board also seasawed over such things as an early childhood program, the successful business/school partnership, and long term subs' pay hike. Supt. Fay came under fire more than once, leading to a refusal to renew his contract. Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell was chosen as Fay's replacement after an extensive search process involving teachers, students, and parents.

The housing authority, too, seasawed back and forth on firing then rehiring their controversial director Ella Belmore. Much of the controversy centered on Belmore's failure to follow certain directives, Al Meegan's waiver request from a conflict of interest situation, and ongoing division on that board. Things worsened when the state and the courts got involved and a tenant threatened legal action. In the end, the board voted not to renew Belmore's contract and hired former director Ken Dorrance to replace her.

The Board of Health tightened up regs, primarily on cigarette machines, while Health Director Greg Erickson, along with local developers protested new state septic regulations. The planning board and the water and sewer department wrestled with the controversial Oakridge Circle subdivision and planners approved the Inwood Office Park plan. The housing partnership continued its quest to build affordable homes on Avon Street and Denault Drive.

New Faces

Wilmington saw a flurry of retirements and resignations by town employees and many new faces throughout the year. In January, Town Clerk Patty Ward left after 14 years and was replaced by Kay Scanlon. Water and Sewer Supt. Paul Duggan retired January 31 and was succeeded by Paul Niman. Conservation Director Eileen Chabot's resignation went into effect January 22. Both Carolyn Kenney and Anne Kasprzyk came on board as assistant town clerk and environmental specialist, respectively. Principal Assessor Tony Krzeminski retired in August and was replaced by Skip Moynihan.

Among those leaving town boards, for one reason or another, were WCTV Director Karen Kirk, Board of Appeals Chairman Bruce MacDonald, Water and Sewer Commissioners Arthur Smith and James Ring, fincom's Paul Palizolo, and school committeeman John DeMarco.

Other names in the news: Dolores Silva, retiring principal at the Woburn Street School who was replaced by Kathleen Conway; the Rev. Mrs. Tansy Chapman, who left St. Elizabeth's to become a licensed social worker; Jim Hachey and Bob DiPalma, Wilmington's 1992 Good Guys; members of the Luce family, who faced eviction until the media stepped in; Leukemia victim Jonathan Bamberg, who had his wish come true; Santa Larry Noel, who announced his retirement in December; Jean and Joe Hartka, who received the Yankee Clipper Award for promoting square dancing in New England; and Rocco DePasquale, who just returned home after a long hospital stay. On a sad note, well-known Police Lt. Jay Palmer died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in July.

Good news

The year started out with two positive pieces of news: the Massachusetts Historical Commission approved the Centre Village Historic District for acceptance in the National Registrar and The Commissary, Wilmington's first food pantry, found a home in the Swain School. Throughout the year, school groups and local organizations collected canned goods for the pantry while volunteers gave generously of their time to help their neighbors.

The police Detective's Bureau also set up shop in the Swain School while WCTV started a local show, Uniquely Wilmington, with hosts J.T. Turner and AnnMarie Meeker.

Arthur Spear and Dick Allard were two of the newest inductees into the Wilmington Hall of Fame. Limelight Productions brought amateur theater back to town while Matt Joyce's students brought "Simply Speaking: The Joy of Language" to the auditorium stage. Medco Containment Services brought 400 jobs to Wilmington. Fourteen families were drawn in a lottery for new homes in the Shawshen Commons affordable housing project.

The Chamber of Commerce once again hosted a Business Expo in April while students at Wilmington High participated in an Alcohol Awareness Week and a workshop on AIDS. The Lions Club held a Walk for Youth Walkathon, the high school hosted exchange students from Panama and France, and Dan Ballou Sr. won the John Brooks award for showing the most promise in his artwork.

In the past year, a temporary passenger platform was installed at the MBTA commuter rail stop in North Wilmington, the Congregational Church completed renovations to its steeple and clock, and members of the Rotary Club completed work on a new pathway around the Rotary Park pond. Also, Koch Membrane Systems completed a 43,000 square foot addition to its Main Street headquarters, and Al Fiorenza opened a new ballroom at the Casa DiFior.

The Sons of Italy celebrated its 25th anniversary, AIM members partied on their fifth anniversary, and Edmund Sargent turned 93 with a tribute from Larz.

Charles Rooney took a cross country bike ride to benefit the Jimmy Fund while local teens aided the Bread and Roses program in Lawrence. Pop Warner and Wilmington Little League are teaming up to upgrade playing fields behind town hall.

Finally, the town in 1992 retained its "A" bond rating, no small feat these days, and was ranked 28 out of 131 cities and towns in quality of life in Boston Magazine. Wilmington also received a $600,000 Small Cities Grant and a $20,000 Strategic Planning Grant from the state.

Town to pay $320k trash fee

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington selectmen Monday voted unanimously to immediately pay $320,358 to Massachusetts Refusetech Inc. (MRI), the owner of the NESWC (North East Solid Waste Committee) incinerator in North Andover.

The money is owed MRI for retroactive adjustments to service fees and includes 12 percent interest from November 25 to December 31. An arbitration panel determined that all 23 member communities in NESWC have to pay part of the $18 million total award.

Town Manager Micael Cairn and Town Accountant Michael Morris recommended the town charge the money to the court judgement account or, as an alternative, the rubbish account. Though this would result in a deficit and the need to borrow short term at a three to four percent interest rate, that option would be better than borrowing long term or paying the arbitration interest rate of 12 percent should the town fail to make an immediate payment by the end of the month, said Cairn. It would also be better than making cuts in the budget, added the manager. The administrators also recommended that the account deficits be handled at a town meeting in 1993 to remove the liability from the town's balance sheet. To that end they suggested a transfer be made from the "most likely source," the overlay account.

Selectman Chester Bruce noted the town was "over the barrel" to make the payment. He asked if there was any money available in free cash. Morris replied the town has $340,000 negative free cash. The men explained they would only have to borrow for three to four weeks until the February tax bills come due.

Shots fired in Tewksbury

A Lowell man was arrested after allegedly shooting at his estranged on December 22, according to the Tewksbury police. The victim was uninjured, despite some seven shots fired at her at close range.

Tewksbury Inspector Dave Perry said Edward Toronto of Lowell had allegedly followed his wife from Lowell, then pulled up beside her on North Street. The victim, Ann Marie Brems, told police she heard two "pops" and thought rocks had been thrown at her car, but without realizing the car had just been shot.

Toronto then swung in a circle to try and block her passage, Perry said, at which point the victim got a good look at the alleged assailant and identified him as her husband.

Toronto allegedly followed her to Livingston Street, where he fired more rounds, Perry said. One slug shattered the driver's side window, and at least four bullet holes were found along the driver's side of the car. None of the bullets penetrated the steel door. Police found broken glass, spent shell casings and at least one flattened slug along Livingston Street.

Inspector Perry said the victim then drove to the Tewksbury police station to lodge a complaint, and the alleged assailant fled along another route. Tewksbury asked area towns to watch for the suspect car.

Within a few minutes, he said, a Chelmsford cruiser spotted the car, and a brief chase ensued. Toronto refused to stop for the Chelmsford cruiser, and instead headed directly to his home in Lowell, where he was arrested. Perry said that a .22 caliber semiautomatic handgun was found on the front seat of his car.

Chelmsford police charged Toronto with illegal possession of a firearm and failure to stop for a police officer.

Inspector Perry said Tewksbury police then charged him with attempted murder, illegal possession of a firearm, stalking, discharging a firearm within 500 feet of a dwelling and violation of a (209A) restraining order.

Officials from Olin Chemical in Wilmington hope the Conservation Commission will reconsider its recent decision denying a plan to install a weir along a ditch by the plant's property on Eames Street. It is expected that the weir will form a shallow divide which would redirect groundwater from the west ditch back onto Olin property.

The groundwater contains some contaminants which are surfacing in the surrounding drainage ditches

Citizens of Tewksbury

The Tewksbury School Committee has invited parents and interested citizens to serve on a committee for the purpose of hiring an assistant principal at the John W. Wynn Middle School in the Tewksbury Public Schools effective September 1, 1993.

Please submit a letter signifying your interest to serve on this committee by Friday, January 15, 1993.

and on nearby property owned by Hardwick Chemical and Carpet World. The contamination is in the form of floc, a chromium silicate based complex, which theoretically forms as a result of a chemical reaction.

The plant closed shortly after Olin purchased the site in the 1980s. According to spokesman Curt Richards, Olin has spent over $4 million so far trying to assess the amount of contamination. Many of the contaminants, including chromium, chlorides, sulfates, and ammonia, are a result of previous operations on the site. Olin is under state statute to assess the amount of contamination and the risk to the town, and to clean up the site. The company has put in numerous monitoring wells both on and off site to track a plume of material and is reporting on a regular basis to the town's Conservation Commission and the Board of Health.

At an update last week before health officials Richards and fellow spokesman Steve Morrow said, though there is no risk to the town's drinking water, contaminants have been found 60 to 70 feet deep in the lower part of the aquifer. But, they said, a natural divide parallel to Main Street is holding that material back.

Morrow said, too, he and Richards presented a plan to conservation commissioners November 18 to install a weir and apply hydraulic pressure to keep the floc in the ditches from surfacing. However, he added, commissioners denied the plan for three main reasons: the officials were unsure where the redirected water would surface, there was a need to get access agreements from neighbors since the drainage ditch would be raised six inches, and the men couldn't present a timetable for the clean-up.

Health Director Greg Erickson noted the state Department of Environmental Protection was ordering the weir in order to redirect the groundwater flow. He said, though DEP and the local Conservation Commission both have authority over the site, they don't appear to be working together on this particular problem. Richards said Olin has a right to appeal the commission's decision but he would rather work together with that board. In light of a recent letter from DEP's Acting Section Chief Stephen Johnson, Erickson said he would write a letter of support to commissioners in hopes they may change their minds.

In looking ahead, the Olin officials said a draft risk assessment will be done by March and a feasibility study to remedy the whole situation will have to be finished by January 15, 1994.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS

WHO OWNS WHAT?

No matter how much a married couple cares for one another, it's not always wise to put everything into joint ownership. While there are no tax obligations when everything is left to a spouse, the second-to-die may have an unwieldy estate that triggers estate taxes and so takes money from the children or other heirs.

A primary home, usually most valuable, should be in the name of the spouse with the lower income and the least exposure to lawsuits. The remaining spouse inherits the house with a higher basis than if he or she had owned half of it. A vacation home, on the other hand, should be jointly owned, especially if it's in a different state.

Automobiles should not be owned jointly because of liability; the assets of both could be on the line.

Securities should be owned individually and, if the estate warrants it, can be transferred to a bypass trust designed to shelter the assets from estate taxes.

Start the new year right. Best wishes for a happy 1993 from

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Proving once again that petty vindictiveness is alive and well in Wilmington politics, Selectman Chester Bruce voted against a technical exemption from the state ethics law which will allow Housing Authority Commissioner Al Meegan to continue his livelihood as a real estate broker while serving the town as a public official. Reading from prepared notes and alleging to have "done some research," Bruce used the age-old delay tactic of requesting an opinion from town counsel (better known as busting aggies) to justify his vote. Referring to 76 CMR (something we're all sure Chet is quite familiar with) and "Section 121 of the Massachusetts laws," Bruce said he had concerns over "unanswered questions" which apparently didn't exist in his mind when he favored basically the same exemption for local attorney and School Committee Chairman Robert Peterson. But the Bruce Maneuver didn't work — the board granted the exemption.

The truth is that Bruce is sulking over the ouster of his companion Ella Belmore at the housing authority and is steaming over Meegan's role in the firing. This was ugly politics, pure and simple, and Bruce's futile attempt at legal scholarship was about as credible as his claim he saw bruises on Mike McCoy's face in 1989.

It was a sadly typical way for Bruce to end the year.

Good Riddance, 1992!

Let's all try to forget 1992. The year in general was like a bad bottle of wine. Better to forget you ever had the dreadful experience.

The year can't be accurately catalogued without fully appreciating the level of suffering wrought by an economy which seemed to adorn the human characteristic of revenge.

Maybe the revenge was for our gluttony during the mid eighties when local developers were raking in the green and anybody in town without a job was pretty much without one by choice. We earned a ton, played a lot and God knows we spent without planning for tomorrow.

But nobody deserved 1992. Banks failed almost as quickly as companies laid off and the unemployed in Wilmington and Tewksbury surpassed 2,000. Local leaders had good reason to open a food pantry in the center of town. Foreclosure notices became the staple advertisement of the day and people's lives throughout the year were controlled by two worries: finding a job or losing the one you were lucky enough to have.

It was miserable for individuals but far worse for institutions. The Roman Catholic Church flinched under the spotlight of a heinous child-abuse scandal and Queen Elizabeth may have been speaking for America as much as the British Monarchy when she summarized 1992 as the annus horribilis.

The year was particularly bad for the local government. Regardless of your position on who should and shouldn't be recalled, '92 in hindsight was the singular best reason in history to keep as far away from public service as humanly possible. Reports are that even the recallers were shaking the trees for their candidates in the upcoming special election. But more significantly, regular citizens and even gluttons for punishment would now shirk at the prospect of venturing into Wilmington's newly infamous political arena; where local pols have been sacrificed like the Christians to the lions. In this vein, my '92 Quote of the Year Award is an easy win for School Committee Chairman Bob Peterson, who said just recently, "nobody should have to put up with this crap." You're right, Bob.

What little optimism is left in my belly predicts 1993 will be a better year.

It can't get much worse.

Linda McMenimen and Shirley Callan will survive the chill of a winter recall election. Their opposition has failed to articulate a case against the school committee women which can stand up to close scrutiny. Also, the most recent of many events breaking the way of the incumbents was the misunderstanding of Police Chief Stewart's pronouncement. Whatever the details, the subsequent media spin seemed to clear McMenimen and Callan.

If there are benefactors from a school committee recall election it's officials seeking re-election elsewhere. Incumbents love attention except at reelection time. With Dan Ballou's expected retirement announcement there'll be a coveted open seat on the Board of Selectmen. Chairman Mark Haldane will likely opt for his first reelection bid and his good-natured demeanor should serve him well at the polls. As for the open seat candidates, early favorites might include Diane Allan, Bruce MacDonald and perennial candidate Tony Capuano. Capuano finished second to Bob Cain in 1991 and at the bottom of the heap in '92, fifth in a five man race. The perennial candidate's prospects for '93 look no better but he'll add his particular brand of charm as usual.

Ironically, the school committee candidates up for reelection in April benefit from the winter recall as well. Peggy Kane and Phil Fenton, Sr. gain by an electorate sure to be fatigued and overdosed by school committee controversy, which has been a basic food group in our local political diet for years. Fenton is likely to retire in any event, and that factor combined with a failed recall bid against Callan and McMenimen would not stem a spirited effort to outst Peggy Kane in April.

Happy New Year!

Chief's answer misunderstood

by Larz F. Neilson

The last thing that Chief of Police Bobby Stewart wanted was for the police department to become involved with controversy surrounding the hazing incident. The chief told the Town Crier last week that he considered it essential that people could approach the police without feeling that the department was partisan in any fashion. The role of the police is to serve and protect, not to become embroiled in political battles.

The chief was saying this because of what was reported about his meeting with the Wilmington School Committee on Dec. 16.

The chief had attended that meeting because of the impending release of reports on the hazing incident. The reports were written by Principal Paul Fleming and former Supt. William Fay. The release was ordered by the state supervisor of public records, based on demands from the Lowell Sun and the Boston Globe. Seeing no move in town to block that release, Chief Stewart approached the school committee to discuss his concerns over the release of information concerning juveniles. He wanted to have the town go to court to block the release.

At that meeting, Linda McMenimen asked the chief if any member of the school committee had released any information about the ten specific incidents which occurred at the football camp. The chief replied, no, not to his knowledge.

The Lowell Sun the next day ran a story saying that the chief had cleared all school committee members of any leaks in regard to the hazing incident.

In response to that report, the chief issued a statement last week. He said he felt this was necessary because the Sun and two members of the school committee facing recall, Shirley Callan and Linda McMenimen, had misconstrued what he said.

His statement then went on, in so many words, to answer the question that had not been asked at the school committee meeting — did any member of the school committee release false information which could be considered sensitive? And that answer was yes.

His press release was issued because the Sun had misreported what he had said in the school committee meeting.

The Sun ran an article on Tuesday this week discussing allegations by Callan and Peggy Kane that Stewart had been pressured to issue the press release. In the story, the chief denied the allegation. He simply did not want to be misquoted or to have his words misconstrued.

The irony of the chief's statement is that it is being considered as partisan by some people, simply because it does not say what they would have him saying. And that is exactly what the chief is trying to address.

The December 29, 1982 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

The court sided with William Granfield in a dispute over an alleged rooming house at 968-970 Main Street. The judgment was rendered in Granfield's favor on December 24.

Selectman Richard Trueba was one of three area residents who participated in several state sponsored citizens' legislative seminars.

The board of appeals voted unanimously to allow Charles Kramer to expand his woodworking shop at his Whipple Road home.

Airman John Whitehouse of Farmer Avenue was serving at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Eugene Nelson III of Compass Lane completed recruit training at Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois.

Sixth grader Kathy Mills won the jellybean contest at the Patten Public Library by guessing that there were 1,200 jellybeans in the jar which was the closest to the 1,215 guess. Kathy got to keep the jellybeans as a prize.

Firefighter Albert Cronin was treated at the scene when he was overcome by fumes while fighting a blaze at Tewksbury Auto Parts on East Street.

The January 4, 1968 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Wilmington's fastest growing industry, Compugraphic's Concord Street plant expanded to twice its original size in less than on year.

The Recreation Commission approved the details of a basketball program for girls in grades seven through 12 which was scheduled to begin Saturday morning in the high school gym.

It took about one minute to have the Middlesex County Commissioners approve of adding the intersection of Lowell and Woburn streets to the list of 1968 projects for Chapter 90 Construction, leaving the way clear for the widening of both Lowell and Woburn streets.

Fourteen inches of snow fell the previous week, followed by a freezing rain, and then four more inches of snow. Temperatures dropped to 14 degrees below zero and the school buses had trouble getting started. Eventually, though all the problems were solved.

George Dyas was serving as chairman of the Recreation Commission assisted by Carl Backman, Maybelle Bliss, Rico Catalano and Larry Cushing.

Sam Tucker, Volkswagen Northeastern Distributor VP was pictured at a luncheon during his announcement of the new Volkswagen — with automatic shift.

Youngsters at the Wildwood School were pictured taking bagged lunches to their rooms instead of eating in the cafeteria which was being used for classrooms, while the Woburn Street School was being completed.

Lucci's Market offered bottom round oven roasts, 79 cents a pound; potatoes, 20 pounds, 58 cents and Colonial bacon, 69 cents a pound.

Schamiel's secret hiding place

by Capt. Larz Neilson

It is quite probable that every person who runs a store, all by himself or herself has a place in which to hide money. There is always a chance that a thief, or maybe an armed robber will enter the store when everything is calm and try to steal some of the cash on hand.

Schamiel MacIntosh had a hardware store, on Church Street, across from Hudson's Corner in Wilmington. He sometimes had people who thought that Schamiel should not try to keep his money. But Schamiel had a hiding place - a unique one.

This writer, as a small boy never noticed it. Nor did the older persons who were in Schamiel's hardware store.

The interior of the store was perhaps 25 feet wide, and twice as long. The "counter," where Schamiel presided, was on the south end, the end closest to Main Street. Near that counter, too, was Schamiel's barrel of sugar.

It was also a grocery store - well, sort of.

Away from that counter, at the other end was an assortment of tools and hardware, all for sale. Rakes, hoes, shovels, wheelbarrows, the reader can name them.

There were shelves galore, on which he stored boxes of screws and other utilitarian items. Those shelves went up to a height of over six feet above the floor. That height was no problem to a man who stood six feet three in height. And, what was on those shelves was Schamiel's secret. After the last story which was told about Schamiel, Ed Sargent, now headed for his 94th summer told this writer the secret of the upper most shelf.

On that shelf was stored a number of crockery toilet bowls. Those items were common in the days before indoor toilets - the days when there was a wooden building outside, with a "moon" carved in the door.

When there was too much money at the counter Schamiel would put some in his pocket and stroll down to the other end (the north end) of the store. It was a simple thing then for Schamiel to reach up and put that money in one of those crockery implements.

No one knew, or realized that Schamiel was hiding his money on that highest shelf.

And when it was convenient, before he closed the store in the evening, Schamiel would retrieve that crockery bowl, and take out the money.

That leaves only one question. How did Ed Sargent find out?

Officials to pin down cost of curbside recycling

by Arlene Surprenant

Wilmington will soon be seeking Requests for Proposals (RFP) for a townwide recycling program. The Board of Selectmen unanimously approved the idea Monday in order to get a handle on the cost of such a program. The program could include an expanded drop-off center for recyclables, curbside pickup of recyclables, or a combination of both components.

Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull said the Recycling Advisory Committee has been looking into ways to increase the town's commitment to reduce, reuse, and recycle materials. Recycling not only is presently saving the town money but also is adding to the town's quality of life and helping the environment, said Hull.

Hull said the main goal of any recycling program should be to remove the greatest amount of material from the waste stream.

While a drop-off program only diverts between 10 and 15 percent of material from the waste stream, a curbside program could result in a 15 to 20 percent diversion rate, said Hull. A second goal should be to maximize the level of participation by Wilmington residents. To date, approximately 10 to 15 percent of the population is using the recycling center on Old Main Street, said Hull. He added, in other towns which have a curbside program, 70 to 80 percent of the households participate.

The main drawback of a curbside program is the cost. Based on estimates made by the recycling committee, a curbside program could cost between $61.38 per ton and $104 per ton. In comparison, an expanded drop-off program, which could see the center open more than one day a week, could cost between $44.25 per ton and $66.40 per ton. However, added Hull, the actual costs would not be known until bids are secured.

Hull and the committee recommended the board seek to advertise for RFPs. The Assistant Manager said the RFPs could offer the town several options, among them: award a contract to one vendor for curbside trash and curbside recyclables; award separate contracts to vendors for curbside trash collection and curbside pickup of recyclables; or award a contract including a combination of both such as a limited curbside program and a drop-off program. Selectmen went along with the recommendation. They also asked questions about the benefit of a recycling program and noted the main incentive to recycle is to help the environment.

"For the most part, towns (which now recycle) are not really making a lot of money," agreed Hull. He explained there was too much competition in the market, especially with landfills still open.

Tom Ollilea of the recycling committee told the board the program is currently saving the town $20,000 to $30,000 a year.

Town Manager Michael Cairra backed the recommendation and promised he would attempt to budget for a townwide program. However, he added, he needed more specific figures. Selectmen asked Hull to return to the board with more specific figures when the bids come in.

Ballou declines re-election bid

by Arlene Surprenant

Wilmington Selectman Dan Ballou announced Monday he would not be seeking a fifth term on the board when his term expires in April.

Ballou told fellow selectmen "it's been a privilege" to serve for 12 years on the board. He cited the need for more time with his family as his main reason for not seeking re-election.

"I think it's time to move on and give some more attention to my family," he said.

Fellow selectmen wished Ballou well.

"I'm sure the community appreciates your services," said Bob Cain.

Ballou said he would endorse the candidacy of Chairman Mark Hal-dane, whose seat will also be up for grabs in the spring.

WRA transfers $10,000 to town

by Arlene Surprenant
The Wilmington Redevelopment Authority voted at their meeting last week to transfer $10,000 to the town to help pay for a study of redevelopment possibilities of the Route 38 corridor. The money is a match for a $20,000 Strategic Planning Grant received from the state. The study will complement current WRA plans to widen and improve Route 38 from Clark Street to Glen Road.

The money will go towards the study of such things as the reuse of vacant property like Sweetheart

Plastics, possible rezoning in the area, and ways to make the Rt. 38 vicinity more attractive to business.

According to WRA Executive Director Michael Matt, nine firms have submitted proposals for the study. Matt told his board, "This is a major response." He said Planning/Conservation Director Lynn Duncan is preparing criteria on how to evaluate the proposals. The subcommittee this week reportedly reviewed the criteria and will begin interviewing representatives from those firms with the best proposals.

Stelio's Family Restaurant, 144 Lowell St • 658-9782

A reputation for good food is hard to get. A reputation for good food like Stelio's Restaurant is really hard to get. For years the best way to give directions to Wilmington to a resident of eastern Massachusetts has been: "Go to Stelio's..." and continue from there. It's more than just good food and plenty of it.

The Katsikis family started their restaurant in 1978 in the old Sunnyside building. Only weeks before, the previous owner lamented that it was impossible to run a successful restaurant in the old building. But the day Stelio's opened, it was impossible to get a seat. The line went outside, and around the corner. The seafood was fantastic!

After a fire gutted the building in 1980, a new restaurant was built with plenty of seating. Stelio's can now seat more than 100 hungry customers at a time.

The expansion brought a larger menu, too. You'll find Italian, Greek, seafood and American favorites, all at prices that will please you.

One of the best reasons to run a business in Wilmington is the quality of the employees you can hire. Stelio's has a staff of local people who, without a doubt, are the friendliest waitresses in the area. You get a real feeling of being at home, except you don't have to do the dishes! Many of the waitress have been there for years, seven, ten and even seventeen years!

Breakfast at Stelio's is a tradition for many local construction workers. You'll see the trucks as you drive in. Sundays, however, are different. The trucks are replaced by dozens and dozens of family cars. Thanksgiving

Your favorite waitresses - Dolly, Gloria, Vicky, Laura, Joan and Dimetra

ing is another tradition. The Wilmington High School football team has breakfast there just before meeting Tewksbury on the field.

Make Stelio's your tradition. They are open Monday through Saturday 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Financial aid workshop Jan. 11

The Wilmington School Department is sponsoring a financial aid workshop #2 Monday, Jan. 11 (snow date Jan. 12) from 7 to 9 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

The key note speaker for the meeting is Anthony DeLuca, public accountant and consultant. Mr. DeLuca will provide further assistance and information in the completion of the free application for federal student aid (FAFSA) and the national version of the financial aid form (FAF). Parents are encouraged to take in a completed draft copy of both the FAFSA and FAF to assist them during the meeting.

The forms are expected to arrive in the schools in time for the workshop. Florence Athanasia, guidance chairman, can be contacted at (508) 694-6068 for more information.

Wilmington senior topics

New Year
This Thursday at the stroke of midnight, we will welcome in the New Year, 1993, while saying goodbye to 1992. Looking back we greeted with pleasure a large number of younger seniors, but sadly mourned the loss of many of our elder residents.

Thanks, volunteers
Thanks to many the needs of all residents 60 years and older who sought our help at the Senior Center and in the seniors' homes were met. A thanks is extended to the many senior volunteers who donated hundreds of hours visiting and helping seniors confined to their homes, hospitals and nursing homes; instructing activity programs at the center.

Mary Valentino and Ruth Curtis, craft class; Marguerite Cavanaugh, dance class; shop class Joe Filipowicz, Ella Perkins, art class (until she moved). Starting in January a new instructor will be George Webster; Frances Calandrello, whist games; Henry Latta and Tom Barrasso, bingo; Susan Silva, exercise class, and Carol Hubert, ceramic class.

Thanks, taxpayers
Our thanks also go to the taxpayers who approved our budget at the annual town meeting; Minuteman Homecare for homemakers, Day Care, Protective Services; low income legal services and transportation to medical appointments outside of our area of travel for a cost of $257, 796 in services to our ill, disabled and advanced age seniors. Thanks to the Federal and State for the fuel assistance program that paid the heating bills, repaired and replaced furnaces and insulated the homes of 156 elders for a total cost of $83,630. And to the Department of Elder Affairs for a grant of $4060 to continue our Outreach Program.

Thanks to the clubs and businesses for their help: Kiwanis Club for its generous donations to the monthly whist games, Thanksgiving donation and annual shut-in dinner;

Rotary Club for its monthly food gift certificate donation to seniors in need; Lions Club for the annual dinner dance and monthly food gift certificate for a senior in need; Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks for their annual dinner dance and the donations throughout the year when requested to help a senior; the Maple Meadow Gardens for the Christmas Tree; Hampshire Press for donating the printing of the senior fair chance books and to the town departments who helped us meet the needs of the elderly residents; town manager, public works, public buildings and police department.

Retiring?
Thinking about retiring this year and a little frightened about dealing with a big government agency? You are not alone. Every year approximately 4.5 million people sign up for Social Security benefits. You should prepare ahead before going to the Social Security Office. Here are a few steps to take:

1. Call the Social Security Office in Lowell and ask for the publication Understanding Social Security. This publication will tell you all you need to know about Social Security retirement benefits.
2. To find out how much you will receive monthly when you call ask also for the "Earning and Benefits Estimate Statement Form, 7004." Fill it out and return it. You will receive a statement that lists your earnings and an estimate of your retirement benefits.

You will then be told to file, you will need a certified copy of your birth certificate, your W-2 form for last year and if you want a direct deposit of your check to your bank, your checking or saving account information. The Lowell office telephone number is 452-5509 and the toll free Social Security number is 1-800-772-1213. The best time to call the Lowell office is between 2 and 4 p.m. and the toll number from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Happy New Year to all.

Screenprint's valuable resource

Employees of Screenprint gather at the Wilmington facility for a commemorative photograph, marking their being a 1992 winner of the first Mass. Quality Award. The company's 85 employees were recognized as the company's most important resource by Screenprint President Walter T. Dowgiallo, shown holding the crystal and marble trophy.

The Mass. Quality Award recognizes Mass. organizations that have attained a high level of quality excellence. Screenprint was selected the winner in the small business category for 1992, the first year of the Award.

Screenprint wins quality award

Screenprint, Inc., a leader in high precision screen printed products, recently won the first Massachusetts Quality award in the small business category for 1992.

Driven by the TQM imperative, this supplier to world class performance companies has been progressing toward excellence since its inception in 1969. "Responding to the quality challenge comes naturally for Screenprint," says Screenprint President Walter T. Dowgiallo. "Embracing exacting customer requirements and responding to custom orders are Screenprint's hallmarks, a result of the constant challenge of our customers' needs for quality. We've proven that quality pays off, and we're winning in large part due to our quality initiatives."

Winning hasn't come easily, however, according to Dowgiallo. "We've had to work hard to implement TQM. A lot of our management people had been in our industry for many years and they did not understand what quality was. We really needed to look at quality as it pertained to the whole company - our employees, our equipment, our suppliers. As a discipline for measuring our achievements, for example, we have applied for the Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award for each of the past three years."

The Baldrige program, begun in 1987, has been used as the model for the 1992 Massachusetts Quality Award. This is the first year of the Mass. Quality award program, which is named in honor of Dr.

Armand V. Feigenbaum, a Pittsfield native who pioneered the total quality approach. Administered by the Mass. Council for Quality, the award honors corporations for their use of quality management as a business effectiveness tool.

Screenprint is one of three winners selected from Mass. based manufacturing, service, small business, and non-profit corporations who applied for the 1992 Mass. Quality Award. Judging was based on excellence in the categories of leadership, information and analysis, strategic quality planning, human resource utilization, quality assurance of products and services, quality results and customer satisfaction. In addition to the Screenprint award, the other winners were AT&T Merrimack Valley Works and The Foxboro Company.

Located on Ballardvale Street in Wilmington, Screenprint manufactures nameplates, labels, decals, overlay control panels, decorative inserts and trims, faceplates, and templates. The major printing processes used by Screenprint are screen printing, offset printing, hot stamping and laser for bar code printing.

Screenprint employs 85 people from the Merrimack Valley and southern New Hampshire. Screenprint is the largest specialty screen printer in New England, the seventh largest screen printer in its product category in the United States, and the eighth largest commercial printer in the greater Boston area. Customers include IBM, Eastman Kodak, Lotus Development Corp., AEG Modicon, Hewlett-Packard, Motorola-Codex Division, Cabletron Corp., Pitney Bowes, Agfa Corp. and Digital Equipment Corp.

Says Dowgiallo, "our customers are the driving force behind continuous improvement and innovation at Screenprint. Today they want faster turnaround time, greater flexibility, and more effective long term partnerships."

Commenting on winning the 1992 Mass. Quality Award, Dowgiallo notes "we are committed to setting the standard for excellence in our industry as a world class performer, and we anticipate having to work as hard after the fact as before."

Wilmington police news

During the week ending December 29, Wilmington police officers responded to 43 alarms, made five arrests and four protective custody detentions, assisted other departments on four occasions, made one bank escort, investigated a burglary and four complaints of disorderly conduct.

Six domestic problems were quieted, a larceny was checked out, a motor vehicle was reported missing, medical assistance was rendered on five occasions and five animal related complaints were logged.

Seven non-criminal complaints were taken, 13 public services were completed, two restraining orders were issued and a threat complaint was logged. Eleven traffic accidents were investigated, three traffic services were carried out, four incidents of vandalism were checked out and there were 10 reports of suspicious activity.

Arrests
Tuesday afternoon detectives arrested Bradford E. Howse, 29, 51 Forest Street, Wilmington on the basis of a Wakefield warrant. He was released to Wakefield officers pending his appearance in Malden District Court.

Edward Benoit, 35 of Grove Avenue was arrested at 1 a.m. Wednesday by Officer Paul Chalifour. Benoit was charged with operating under the influence of liquor and failing to keep to the right of the road. He was bailed for a Woburn Court appearance later on Wednesday.

Sgt. David McCue and Ptlm Jim Hanlon arrested Stephen Bushway, 34 of Cunningham Street on Wednesday and charged him with disorderly conduct. The arrest was made after officers responded to a noise complaint.

Sunday evening two men were arrested by Officers Joe Desmond and Bob Richter after the officers responded to an accident on Lowell Street. Daniel Madden, 19 of Burlington was charged with operating under the influence of liquor. A passenger, Stephen Donnelly, 19 also of Burlington was charged with disorderly conduct. Both men were transported to Winchester hospital where they were treated for minor injuries, released then bailed from the hospital pending their appearance in Woburn District Court.

Happy New Year
Chief Stewart, along with the entire Police Department wishes local residents a happy and prosperous new year. We look forward to a safe and peaceful year to come.

Al Meegan granted special status

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington Housing Authority member Al Meegan was granted an exemption from Massachusetts General Law as a Special Municipal Employee of the town. The action taken by selectmen Monday night allows Meegan, a realtor in town, to continue with his business without giving a potential appearance of a conflict of interest as a member of the housing authority.

Town Clerk Kay Scanlon wrote to the board that she saw no reason not to grant the exemption. In an earlier letter to Scanlon, Meegan said, "As a landlord I have a financial interest in the rental of property in the town of Wilmington that receives Housing and Urban Development Section 8 subsidies under the local housing assistance contract." He added that he has been granted a waiver from HUD and he was just notifying Scanlon of his financial interest in town property.

Meegan told selectmen, since he owns a Section Eight rental home, he cannot participate in any Section Eight contracts that affect him personally but he can rent out other units.

"There is going to be that potential that I may have a Section Eight tenant or customer," he said.

Selectman Chester Bruce asked to delay any vote until after they check with Town Counsel on the board's liability, if any. Chairman Mark Haldane disagreed with Bruce saying, "This, to me, is no different from what we've done in the case of (school committee) Chairman Bob Peterson."

"I don't think it's (the exemption) new to any of us," added Bob Cain as he motioned to approve the exemption. The motion passed three to one. Bruce opposed the motion and Dan Ballou was late to the meeting and did not vote.

Tree recycling

The last present has been opened and the final Carol sung and Wilmington residents are encouraged to dispose of their Christmas trees in a safe and environmentally sound manner. During the weeks of January 4-8 and 11-15, on regular trash collection days, the DPW will pick up all Christmas trees.

Residents should check that all ornaments have been removed (tinsel is okay) and place the trees curbside on their normal trash pick up days during the appointed weeks. The DPW, wood chipped in tow, will make the rounds of the neighborhood and reduce the aging Christmas trees into pine mulch. The DPW will use the mulch in town landscaping projects next spring.

After the Christmas trees have beautified our homes, let them "spruce" up the town a bit. Please join in the town wide collection and have your trees disposed of properly.

Youth hockey

Squirt C's belt Andover

Wilmington Squirt C's squared off against Andover IV in local Youth Hockey League action next week.

Wilmington came out charging in this game, scoring three goals in the first period and two in each of the second and third periods and took it all for a 7-1 win.

Dan Tello scored two goals and three assists for five points. Eric Banda was right behind him with a goal and three assists.

Joining them were John O'Neil with two goals and one assist and Dan Tocio with two goals. Other assists went to Brian LeBlanc with two, Erik Gustafson and Robert Garrett each got one.

The Wilmington Squirt C's later faced off with Valley League's first place team, Peabody III, a team that has scored 29 goals this season to Wilmington's 19, but Wilmington goalie Chris Rose was ready for this game, as he stuffed it to Peabody and came out smelling like a rose.

Rose helped his teammates to a 5-2 win over Peabody III and Wilmington now has sole possession of first place.

This was a game where Wilmington's defense and offense worked together for the win.

Brian Considine broke up many plays in front of the net, one actually inside the crease.

Robert Garrett, Matt Gillis and Billy Haffner all put it together to keep the puck out of their end.

Brian LeBlanc scored his first goal of the season assisted by Dan Tocio. Brian returned that favor later by assisting Dan Tocio on his two goals.

John O'Neil also picked up a goal in the first period assisted by Erik Gustafson, his 10th assist of the season. The only goal of the second period came at the 10:22 mark when Eric Banda broke up the play at center ice, brought it over the blue line all alone and placed one over the goalie's right shoulder.

Wilmington's Squirt C's will enter 1993 with a solid 5-0 record.

Outdoors columnThe grand sport of ice fishing

by Bill Conlon

Ooooh, I LIKE it!

Ice fishing time is here. Hoist the flags, fire up the auger, and pass me the schnapps, wouldja please?

Over the holiday weekend five of us fished Long Pond in Tyngsboro, at the "Red Top" end where the ice always gets thickest, first.

It was grand. Nasty cold, crystal blue skies, and a stiff wind blowing across the ice. Perfect. Winter has finally arrived, and it was heaven for those of us who like it cold.

My brother came to town for the holidays, and his custom, whenever conditions permit, is ice fishing on the weekend after Christmas with a few cousins and others. With good ice underfoot, off we went to Red Top for our annual holiday trip.

Once upon a time there was an old amusement park at that end of the pond, with a red roof on the dance hall. Now, the "Red Top" name is all that's left, and nothing else.

The ice was good, with about four inches of firm "black" ice under an inch-thick layer of gray ice. Dandy.

A few years ago, I remember going fishing in that same spot with less than a hand-span of ice underfoot.

And the day was lovely. The air was around 20 degrees at sunrise, with a stiff wind blowing the loose snow in shifting patterns across the ice, like watching the sand blowing over the dunes in the Sahara. On the down side, we needed "creepers" to stay upright on the glassy surface.

I loved it. Crisp air, clear skies, just the sort of day when all the sane folks are huddled under their down comforters, grabbing a few hours of extra sleep. Shame on them.

What more can you ask on the day after Christmas? Fish! Of course!

The fishing wasn't bad, with one keeper-sized bass and a keeper-size pickerel, both of which individuals are still swimming after suffering a minor inconvenience for my own amusement. A half-dozen flags had nothing to show for the effort, but at least the flags were flying.

The wind had just enough bite to make your hands turn red when the mittens came off. And naturally, wet hands in a winter wind is one of those character-building joys that the meek shall never know, only the ice fishing types.

We picked up bait at Dan's Bait & Tackle, on nearby Lake Mascuppic, a mile or two away. The owners of that emporium have started a nifty new gimmick. Every dozen shiners purchased earns you a stamp on the back of a card. After 12 stamps, you get a dozen shiners free.

The weather has since warmed up a bit, so do be careful. Ice melts in warm weather, and anything above freezing is considered warm. Rain also hurts. Don't set foot on thin or questionable ice, since even a short dunk in an icy pond can be fatal. Do be careful out there.

But there's ice on the ponds. Pull out the skates and fishing gear and get ready for a long, happy season in the cold, clean air.

It's finally winter. Ahhh!

defense. The rebounding standout was C.T. Kelly in this Huskie triumph.

Joe Mercer had 22 points for the Blazers, while the outstanding defenseman was Joe Phelan.

Timberwolves 45 Pacers 39

Timberwolf Carl Cyr had 16 points in this closely fought contest. Joshua Zawacki did well on defense and Mark Bradley played well all-around.

For the Pacers, Matthew Adams made eight of the 39 points and Steve Collins led on defense. Michael Sheeley played a good game.

Bucks 62 Hawks 25

Dereck Heald led the offense for the Bucks, while Brian Kontos and Brian Cody also played well.

The Hawks got their 25 points through the outstanding efforts of Tim Blaco, Chris Maxwell and David Lamonica.

Bucks 67 Magic 25

Luke Fuller, Jonathan Bambach and Kevin Delaney played well for the winners.

D.J. Peterson and William Sullivan put forth mighty efforts for the losers, but it was not enough.

Intermediate divisionMav's 55 Mets 33

Brad Petros led the Mav's offensively, while Mike Pellegrino did well on defense.

Paul Fugere tossed in 12 points for the losers, while Dan Keefe did his best on defense.

Redmen 35 Sonics 29

This closely fought encounter saw Frank Figlioli making eight points for the Redmen backed well by Nick Luibil and Jimmy Goglia.

For the losers, Chris Keating put in five points with Mark Morris and Adam Imbrilio playing well.

WIFE INSURANCE

QUESTION: Does it make sense to carry life insurance on a wife?

ANSWER: Yes! Fifty percent of all American wives have life insurance policies today for a total value of more than 200 billion dollars. However, the average wife insurance today is only a scant amount of the income her family would actually need to balance the strictly financial loss if she died.

Not to mention the loss of income (over 50% of wives work), there are the expenses of burial, cost of child care and household help. There are a variety of programs tailored to fit family needs in this area. After death a family must carry on. It helps to be protected.

It's as important for a wife to be insured as a husband. Half of wives are breadwinners, too.

the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of the Mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, there will be sold at Public Auction beginning at 3:00 p.m. on the 15th day of January, 1993 on the mortgaged premises located at 16 Upton Drive, Wilmington, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, all and singular, the premises described in the Mortgage (collectively, the "Mortgaged Property"), to wit:

...the land in Wilmington, Massachusetts all as described in Exhibit A attached hereto, together with any and all improvements now or hereafter situated thereon and all rents, issues and profits and other appurtenant rights associated with the ownership of such land (collectively, the "Real Property").

As further security for the Mortgagor's obligations, the Mortgagor hereby grants to the Mortgagee a security interest in all equipment (as defined in the Uniform Commercial Code), now or hereafter located on or intended to be used in connection with the Real Property; all insurance proceeds including interest payable in connection with any damage or loss to the Mortgaged Property, all eminent domain awards made with respect to the Mortgaged Property, all licenses and permits for the use or occupancy of the Real Property, all trade names associated with the use or occupancy of the Real Property, all books and records relating to the Mortgagor's operation of the Real Property, all contracts, agreements and warranties, including rights to return of deposits, prepaid premiums or other payments, relating to the construction, use or occupancy of the Real Property; and all other personal property of the Mortgagor arising from, or now or hereafter relating to, located at or used in connection with the Real Property, including without limitation, all inventory, equipment, and other goods, documents, instruments, general intangibles, chattel paper, accounts and contract rights (each as defined in the Uniform Commercial Code), and the proceeds therefrom (collectively, the "Personal Property").

The Real Property and the Personal Property are referred to collectively as the "Mortgaged Property".

Exhibit A to the Mortgage reads as follows:

"EXHIBIT A

All that certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated at 16 Upton Drive (Lot 10) in Wilmington, Middlesex County, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and containing approximately 4.3
acres, shown as Lot 10 on a plan entitled "Plan of Land in Wilmington, Mass., Owned by P.G.A. Realty Trust, Scale 100 foot to an inch, January 20, 1983, Robert E. Anderson, Inc., Reg. Professional
Engineer, Reg. Land Surveyor, 173 Park

Street, P.O. Box 177, North Reading, Mass." recorded at Middlesex North
District Registry of Deeds, Plan Book
139, Plan 6. Together with the right to use Upton Drive for all purposes for which public ways may be used in the Town of Wilmington. Together with access to and egress from Upton Drive through the two entrances shown on plan entitled "As-Built Plan of Land in Wilmington, MA,
Prepared for Lin-Pro," dated September
17, 1985, by Vanasse Hangen
Engineering, Inc.

Together with a drainage easement leading from the southeasterly portion of the granted premises adjacent to the Smith and Centoni premises to the pond on the Lot (13) adjacent premises of P.G.A.
Realty Trust for the purpose of draining water from these premises to said pond;
and the right to install, maintain and repair at the grantee's expense a pipe or conduit for said purposes in the easement area.

Being the same premises conveyed to the grantor by deed of LinPro Wilmington Industrial Limited Partnership recorded herewith."

Subsequent to the execution and recording of the Mortgage, the Mortgagor executed (i) a Master Deed establishing The New England Business Center at Wilmington Condominium, dated April 7,
1989, recorded with said Deeds in Book 4465, Page 299 (the "Master Deed") as affected by Amendment in Book 4570, Page 23, and a Declaration of Trust
recorded with said Deeds in Book 4465, Page 318 (the "Declaration of Trust"), as amended of record, which together purported to create The New England
Business Center at Wilmington Condominium, consisting of four (4) condominium units. The following units have been conveyed to third parties and have been released from the Mortgage and will not be offered as part of the sale (collectively, the "Released Units"): Unit 1 and Unit 3. Accordingly, the following units in the Condominium (and their respective appurtenant interests in the Condominium in accordance with the Master Deed), will be offered as part of the sale: Unit 2 and Unit A-1.

All real and personal property originally subject to the Mortgage, excluding only the Released Units, shall be referred to, collectively, as the "Mortgaged Property".

The Mortgaged Property will be sold subject to and with the benefit of, inter alia, all restrictions, easements, improvements, leaseholds, tenancies,

Wedding

Anne Gregorio weds Michael Manna

Anne Frances Gregorio, daughter of Louis and Frances Gregorio of Hopkins Street, Reading became the bride of Michael J. Manna, son of Barbara Manna of Euclid Road, Tewksbury and Joseph Manna of Dedham on September 12.

The late morning ceremony was performed by Father Arthur Flynn before the altar of St. Agnes Church, Reading.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a full length white gown featuring leg-o-mutton sleeves, tapered at the wrist, lace bodice and a scalloped v-neckline. Her flowing veil was held in place by a band of matching lace and she carried a cascade of red, white and red roses accented with ivy.

Laurie Tocco Burris, of Reading, Cousin of the bride served as matron of honor while the bride's attendants included Susan Macaluso, Christine Burditt of Reading, close friends of the bride, MaryJean Cookson of Londonderry, N.H., cousin of the bride and Valerie LeBoeuf of Lowell, sister of the groom.

Katie Ladd LeBoeuf, niece of the groom served as flower girl.

Jeffrey Manna, served his brother as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Michael Gregorio, of Reading, brother of the bride, John Gregorio of Sarasota, Fla., also a brother of the bride; Joseph Nogelo of Gloucester and Rick Cooke of Nashua, N.H., close friends of the groom, Nicholas Gregorio, of N. Falmouth served as jr. usher.

Nicholas Manna, nephew of the groom acted as ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Danversport Yacht Club where Donna Sullivan, a close friend of the couple circulated the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to St. Thomas and Disney World, the couple will live in Tewksbury.

The new Mrs. Manna is employed as director of the Dracut Children's Center.

Her husband serves as program director at the North Suburban YMCA in Woburn.

M.E. Santa says

Thank You to our donors

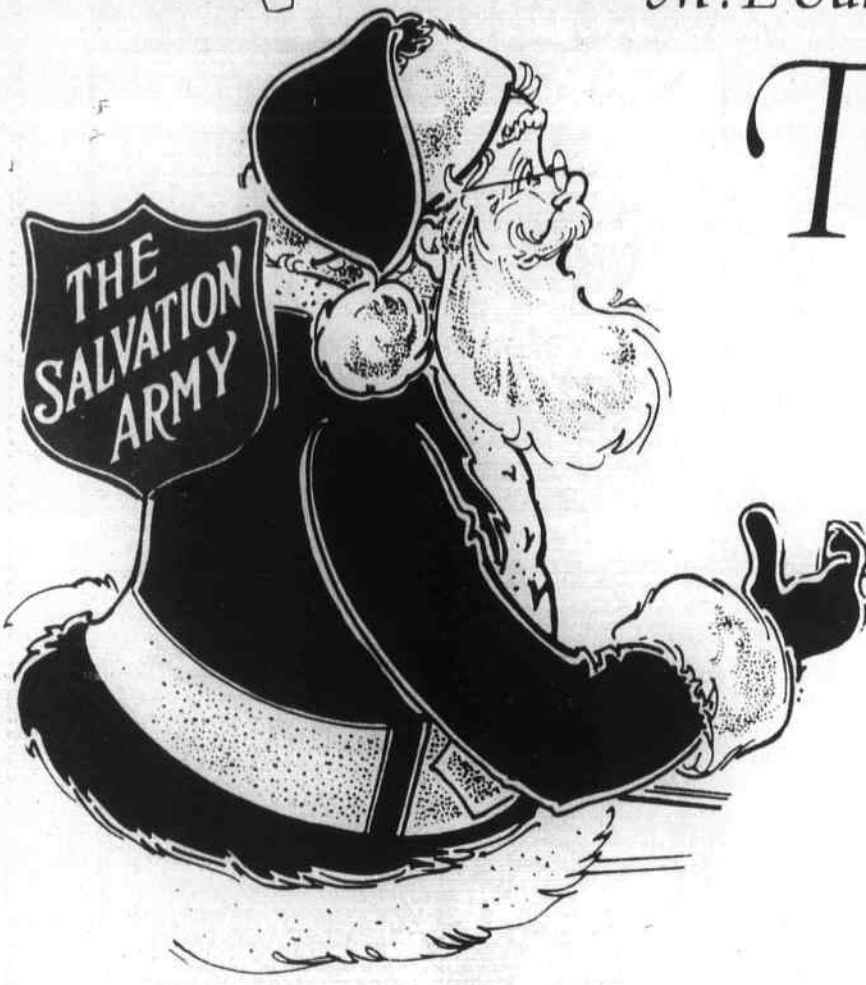

Christmas Day 1992 is now past and the response from our readers for support of the Salvation Army through the "M.E. Santa" was the highest in its eight year history.

More readers responded and more monies were raised than in any other year. The member newspapers of Middlesex East which include the Lynnfield Villager, No. Reading Transcript, Wilmington Tewksbury Town Crier, Stoneham Independent, Daily News Mercury and the Daily Times Chronicle deeply appreciate the gifts of our readers in helping such a marvelous organization as the Salvation Army.

There are needy individuals and families in our area and the Salvation Army will see to it that the neediest are assisted as much as possible.

These are not the best of times but the following list of organizations, individuals and families found the time to reach out and give Christmas 1992 just a little more meaning. For their generosity we say thank you.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

MALDEN - Because of his "exemplary service to people with disabilities," Stanley Black is Triangle, Inc.'s 1992 Humanitarian of the Year.

President of Trend-lines, Inc. of Chelsea and operator of 17 Woodworker's warehouse stores throughout New England, Black has served for 20 years on Triangle's board of directors as president, vice-president and chairman of several committees. He introduced a shoeshine kit to Triangle in 1980 as a means to train and employ people with disabilities. The kit has grown into a $1 million a year endeavor.

A private, non-profit vocational rehabilitation agency, Triangle was founded in 1971 by the Malden Jaycees and other local citizens who believed people with disabilities could learn to lead a more independent, integrated and dignified life through vocational rehabilitation. The founders subsequently renovated the Linden Congregation Church, turning it into a training center serving five disabled trainees with volunteers and one paid staff person.

Triangle today offers five major programs to more than 650 people with disabilities from 35 neighboring towns and cities. Its programs consist of Evaluation and Assessment, Work Activities, Work Service, Supported Employment-Job Placement, and Community Living.

Triangle also operates two community residences serving 17 people.

For more information, call (617) 322-0400.

LYNNFIELD - Lynnfield Town Day '92 proceeds topped $30,000, $10,000 of which will go to the Michael A. Maney Scholarship Fund and $20,000 of which will go to various Lynnfield public school athletic programs.

According to Town Day Executive Director Wesley Reed, this year's attendance - more than 2,000 youngsters and adults - exceeded all expectations. The family-oriented activities included a golf tournament, road race, rollerblade competition, and concert featuring Rock & Roll Hall of Fame artist Ben. E. King.

READING - Prepare yourself for the next storm. Reading librarian Robin Elbot has put together a one-page list of 40 classic novels, ideal for posting on your refrigerator or sharing with your teenagers.

NOT JUST WILMINGTON - Wilmington Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull and DPW Superintendent Bob Palmer have announced new regulations for refrigerators, freezers, dehumidifiers, and air conditioners before they can be picked up by the town or taken to the recycling center.

The Federal Environmental Protection Agency has ruled that the above appliances must have their liquid Freon refrigerant professionally removed prior to discarding or recycling.

The Town of Wilmington does not have the expertise or equipment to comply with those regulations and suggests residents contact New England Refrigerant Recovery, Lohman HVAC, Inc. or the Kidney Foundation.

Each of the above services will charge a fee for the Freon removal and attach a "Freon Free" tag to the appliance, after which owners may contact the DPW for removal or arrange for drop-off at the recycling center.

SENIOR CENTER - The Lynnfield High Chapter of the National Honor Society is once again shoveling snow free of charge this winter for elderly Lynnfield residents.

Lynnfield seniors interested in having their driveways shoveled should contact Nick Iudiciani or Rob Maloney at the high school.

Are you encouraging your teenage child to lie?

Could parents be encouraging their teenagers to lie?

Seventy-one percent of parents believe their teens lie at least on occasion, and 79 percent of teens admit they lie, according to a survey of 1,000 U.S. households conducted by IOF Foresters, a not-for-profit fraternal benefit society dedicated to helping families.

The survey asked both parents and teens how often teens lie. But experts say that even though parents invest a lot of time teaching their kids to be honest, as they grow older and the stakes of their misdoings grow higher, it is sometimes the parents' own responses to their kids' behavior that encourage teens to lie.

Parents, be honest. Do you avoid asking your kids tough questions because you're afraid to hear the truth? Do you try to force your opinions on your adolescent, making him afraid to tell you what he really thinks?

"Many kids lie to protect their parents from things they know will upset them," says Ronald Wynne, Ph.D., president of the District of Columbia Psychological Association and Director of the Washington Assessment and Therapy Services. "They don't think their parents can relate to what they are going through, and know if they open up, they'll get lectures and threats. So they minimize what's going on in their lives to keep their parents on an even keel."

According to Karen Zager, Ph.D., a psychologist in New York City, a little bit of lying is expected and part of growing up. "We can't expect our kids to be angelic all the time," she says. "But lying about significant issues is different."

Here are some pointers for parents from Drs. Wynne and Zager for how they can respond to their kids to encourage teens to open up more and tell the truth.

1. Get your kids to talk by keeping your mouth closed. If your teen is telling you something, don't judge or lecture.
2. Ask for your child's opinions on topics. A simple question like, "What do you think?" can get him talking.
3. Give separate punishments - one for the misdoing and for the lying. That way your child will experience how not telling the truth can cause him more trouble than the misbehavior itself.
4. Ask for your child's permission to give suggestions. A question like, "I'm worried about you; would you like to hear my opinions or talk about other options?" is more likely to be tolerated than launching into a lecture.
5. Ask if your child would rather talk to you with one of his friend joining in. That way he'll feel less threatened and be more open to telling the truth because he'll feel camaraderie.
6. Get involved in the nitty gritty of your teen's life. Be interested in who is dating who and what kid got in trouble at school. When you take your teens' lives seriously, they will talk more and lie less.
7. Don't make your rules so unrealistic that your child is forced to lie about his behavior.
8. Tell your teen exactly what you want in terms of knowing where he is going, the nature of the event, and when you can expect him home. That's a safety net he needs.
9. Let your child know that you and his friends' parents have open lines of communication and check in with each other.
10. Let an older sister or brother serve as confidant and barometer. Often teens will reveal a

"Toys"

"Toys" Starring Robin Williams, Joan Cusack, Michael Gambon, Robin Wright, L.L. Cool J. Directed and written by Barry Levinson. Produced by Mark Johnson and Levinson. Rated R.

There are a lot of things wrong with "Toys," not the least of which is a weak plot. But its biggest problems may be the audience's expectations.

Both the film's name and its star would lead us to believe that this will be a whimsical, light-hearted film. Instead, it's a beautifully photographed allegory whose cynicism is lost amidst a weak plot.

Robin Williams plays Leslie Zevo, the flaky son of a toy manufacturer. On his deathbed, Daddy (Donald O'Connor) decides to hand control of his company over to his militaristic brother, known only as The General, knowing The General's methods will clash with the company's peaceful and happy philosophies. Dad figures this confrontation will finally force his son to grow up.

The allegory, which is thinly veiled at best, is about the war machine that is America. The General takes over more and more of the company, and its budget, in order to build newer and better war toys that work in ways the kids would never suspect. But it's all so obvious that we can feel no real excitement about the symbolism here. The plot is not complex, there is nothing to mull over as the film unwraps. What you see is all you get. Had this movie been made with as much attention to the plot as the visuals, it could have had audiences arguing in lobbies all over America. Had it even been released without such a precious - and deceiving - ad campaign, we would have been geared for the TYPE of movie it is.

As for those visuals, this movie is almost worth seeing just to absorb its images. The art direction is amazing in its innovative juxtaposition of objects and color.

ROBIN WILLIAMS STARS in Barry Levinson's "Toys," a comedy about a whimsical toymaker who must save his father's factory from the clutches of his demented uncle.

It's not unusual to see a bubble blowing elephant-shaped gravestone, or a house that unfolds before you enter it, or even automobiles designed to look like toys. The last time I can remember any direction being this daring and brilliant was when Terry Gilliam released "Brazil." But that was a movie that didn't have to stand on its looks alone.

Robin Williams, obviously reined in by director Barry Levinson, could have given the film both texture and humor, but Levinson seemed to be going for depth he couldn't achieve with his by-the-numbers script, which eventually just gets bogged down in the logistics of battling toys. Faring better are Joan Cusack, who is compelling as his bizarre sister, and Michael Gambon as the psychologically distressed General.

Bottom line - put this surreal flick last on your Christmas list. You'll do a lot better watching a video without the sound. It's like having a Rene Magritte painting come to life and for that it deserves not to be totally condemned.

Short Takes

Leap of Faith is a quick, slick and fun film, but this story of a artist faith healer who learns a real lesson about belief needed a grittier edge. Steve Martin moves past his usual comic routine and does a decent job, but he needed to be snarlier. He's just too nice a guy to be believed as this snake oil salesman. The film is so much fun we can live with the fact it lacks depth. Rated PG-13. ***

"The Muppet Christmas Carol" is sure to please the kiddies but parents may be surprised at Michael Caine's wooden performance and all those truly boring songs. But the Muppets are still a joy and the story is quite literate, with much of the dialogue lifted straight out of Charles Dickens' classic novel. Rated G. **

The Distinguished Gentleman is chock full of delightful impersonations from star Eddie Murphy and lots of laughs, even if the plot is by the numbers. Murphy plays a conman who becomes a congressman, which we learn is not such a giant step. Though this light flick is hardly memorable, it does sustain laughs to keep you interested right through to the end. Rated R.  1/2

A Few Good Men is a powerful drama set in a military courtroom starring Tom Cruise, Demi Moore and Jack Nicholson. In spite of rather uneven pacing, this movie is packed with strong performances and a dynamite ending. It also manages to sidestep numerous stereotypes as it builds layered and believable characters. Rated R.  1/2

Singles is a fun, if somewhat predictable comedy by writer/director Cameron Crowe ("Fast Times at Ridgemont High"). This Twentysomething pacan to love in the 1990s and the Seattle music sound dishes up witty dialogue and intriguing characters. Kyla Sedgwick, Campbell Scott and Bridget Fonda make for an appealing cast. All told, it's a funny and clever flick, even if the ending is exactly what we expect. Rated PG-13. ***

Sneakers is one of those Hollywood anomalies -- it is bitingly clever, fast-paced and holds up right through to the end. Robert Redford leads a crew of burglars who work for banks and insurance agencies to make sure security systems are all they should be. But Redford walks into a con that is one smoke bomb and red herring after another. Boisterous good fun. Rated PG-13.  1/2

The Bodyguard is a truly, truly bad movie. Kevin Costner stars as the upright bodyguard to singer Whitney Houston, who has obviously never acted before. The draggy plot borders on the ridiculous and since there's no chemistry between Houston and Costner, this doesn't even make for good romantic trash. Rated R. *

Aladdin may not be a Disney classic, but it is a lot of fun, Robin Williams' witty performance as a big blue genie is a non-stop vaudevillian act, as he hurls jokes to the kiddies before flinging others at their parents. The music may not blow you away and the animation is less than lush, but the rat-a-tat humor and strong characters make this a success. Rated G.  1/2

Malcolm X masterfully captures the emotional undercurrent of the fifties and sixties while humanizing the controversial black leader. Though too long, this film is nearly brilliant, thanks to a bravura performance by Denzel Washington, a heartfelt script and catchy visuals. Writer/director Spike Lee is such a convincing filmmaker it may be difficult to remember that we are not watching history, but merely Lee's version of it. Rated R.  1/2

INTRODUCTION TO WINTER CAMPING

REI of Reading will be holding a two-part clinic designed for backpackers with three season experience and little or no hiking and camping experience.

Session I features Bob Terrano of REI who will give tips on dressing for winter conditions, general winter camping equipment and winter camping skills on Wednesday, January 6.

The second half of this two-part clinic will be held on Thursday, January 7, and addresses specific essential winter camping equipment. Tents, sleeping bags, packs, skis and snowshoes are the primary focus in this session. Additional tips and tricks of the trade will conclude the program.

Evening clinics begin at 7 p.m. and are free and open to the public. They are held at REI, 279 Salem St. (exit 40 off Rte. 128), Reading, (617) 944-5103.

SUPPORT GROUP FOR TODDLERS AND MOMS

For most people the old-fashioned extended family is a thing of the past. Today's families are smaller and people are often separated from relatives by great distances. With this in mind, Melrose-Wakefield Hospital is offering "Toddlers Time," an informal gathering of moms and tots which gives new moms and their children the chance to enjoy opportunities for support and socialization.

"Toddlers Time" offers an hour of activity and socialization for crawlers, walkers and their moms. It is a great chance for both to interact with their peers and make new friends. Moms also get the chance to trade helpful information on a range of baby care and childrearing topics.

"Toddlers Time" meets on two Wednesday mornings per month, from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, beginning January 13. There is no fee or registration required. The program is held in the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Family Education Center (formerly Franklin School) located at the corner of Franklin and Main streets in Melrose. For additional information on "Toddlers Time" or any other MWH childbirth program, please call the Childbirth Education Department at (617) 979-3408 or (617) 979-3515.

POLYMNIA CHORAL SOCIETY REHEARSALS

The Polyminia Choral Society, a community chorus based in melrose with singers from 15 surrounding towns, welcomes new members. The 60-voice ensemble begins rehearsals on Tuesday, January 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Church on West Emerson Street, across from the Melrose Library.

Informal auditions for new singers will be held at 7 p.m., January 5 and 12 (before rehearsal). Basses are especially encouraged to participate.

The winter concert to be presented March 28 will feature Faure's "Requiem," Haydn's "Little Organ Mass," and Beethoven's "Hallelujah." The group is directed by James Reyes, an active composer, conductor, pianist, organist, and teacher. He is an Assistant Professor of Composition at Berklee College in Boston, and Choir Director at St. Peter's Church in Weston.

For more information, call (617) 662-8514 or write to Polymnia Choral Society, P.O. Box 82, Melrose, MA 02176.

ALL BREED DOG SHOW IN FITCHBURG

The Greater Lowell Kennel Club and the Merrimack Valley Kennel Club will hold their annual Winter All-Breed Dog Show on Saturday, January 16, and Sunday, January 17, at the Royal Plaza Trade Center, 150 Royal Plaza Drive in Fitchburg at the junction of Rte. 2 and Rte. 31.

The Greater Lowell Kennel Club and the Merrimack Valley Kennel Club are non-profit organizations and the expected entry at each show is 1,600 dogs.

Admission is $4; Senior citizens, $3; Children under 12 are admitted free. Show hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

For further information call the show chairman Ed McKenna, (617) 643-0652.

POST HOLIDAY DIETING AND LIFESTYLE

Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford and the Medford Public Library will be co-sponsoring a free lecture on "Post-Holiday Dieting and Lifestyle Changes: on Thursday, January 7, at 7 p.m. in the library.

No advanced registration is required.

BURLINGTON HIGH BAND FUNDRAISER

The Burlington High School Band Booster Association will be holding a Las Vegas Night at the Day Inn, Wheeler Road, Burlington on Saturday, January 2, from 7:30 p.m. to midnight. Entrance fee is $3. There will be free refreshments (coffee and donuts).

For more information contact Susan Cogswell, (617) 273-9007.

ATYPICAL LEARNER AND THE ARTS

Arts Lexington presents a panel discussion and workshop "Differences That Make a Difference: How the Arts and Mentors Make a Difference to the Atypical Learner."

A panel for learners and teachers moderated by Mary Jane Raymond, tutor from the Emerson Umbrella, with art teachers from the Carroll School, Lincoln and the Coting School, Lexington, on Wednesday, January 20 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Arlington Center for the Arts, 41 Foster Street, Arlington.

Admission is free. To register call Arts Lexington, Inc., (617) 862-5506, (617) 863-5950 or (617) 566-5152 VOICE/TDD. ACA is wheelchair accessible. Call ahead for directions, (617) 648-6220.

CHILDBIRTH EDUCATION CLASSES TO BEGIN

Childbirth Education of the North Shore is now accepting registration for the next series of Childbirth Education classes which will meet on Wednesday evenings from January 27 through March 3.

Some of the topics to be covered include: late pregnancy, the physiology of labor, comfort measures, physical conditioning for labor and birth, medical interventions (including medication, anesthesia, Cesarean section), the partner's role, relaxation, and breathing techniques. Class size is limited to five couples to provide the opportunity to explore these topics in a relaxed and personal environment.

For additional information and to register, call Carolyn at (508) 664-1338.

OPEN HOUSE AT SOMERVILLE HOSPITAL

"Open House" will be held at the Somerville Hospital School of Nursing, 125 Lowell St., Somerville, on Wednesday, January 6th and January 20th from 7 to 9 p.m.

This recruitment function is for people interested in a career as a professional registered nurse. Faculty and nursing students will be available to provide information about the program and conduct tours of the school and hospital.

The School of Nursing is a National League for Nursing Accredited Program leading to a diploma in nursing. The school offers both day and evening programs, full-time and part-time. Graduates of the school are eligible to write the State Board Examination for licensure as a Registered Nurse.

Additional information about the school and open house may be obtained by contacting Patricia Dineen, (617) 666-4400, Ext. 246.

STRESS MANAGEMENT PROGRAM OFFERED

Learn more about stress overload and discover the sources of stress. Winchester Hospital now offers a stress management program which will help participants evaluate their own stress levels and make relaxation an effortless part of life.

The program, presented by Northeastern University's John C. Pakstis, Ph.D., is offered from 7 to 9 p.m. on January 14th, 21st and 28th at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center in Wilmington.

--"I think I am special because I have two wonderful parents, a brother, and a sister," writes Wakefield eighth grader Anna Joy Spear, in "Wide Horizons," a publication of Wide Horizons, Inc. in Waltham.

"I was born in Thailand. I am lucky to have been adopted. There are others less fortunate than me. I could have a very different life if I wasn't adopted."

"There are other reasons why I am glad I'm adopted; they are ... there are people in my life who care, I learn new things each day, and I have a chance for a different future."

--Medford High anatomy and physiology teacher Dr. Raymonda Haviland Hickey has been selected for "Who's Who Among America's Teachers" and has received a "Teacher of Excellence Award." Only five percent of the nation's teachers are cited as "Teachers of Excellence."

Medford High math teacher Mark Smith is also listed in "Who's Who," along with four other Medford teachers.

--Eighty-three percent of the members of Lynnfield High's Class of 1992 indicated that they would pursue their education.

Thirty-nine percent are attending private four-year colleges; 34 percent, public four-year colleges. Four Lynnfield students enrolled at the University of Miami, a private school, while the University of Massachusetts at Amherst attracted the largest number of members of the Class of '92: eight. Five students attend Salem State College.

Seven percent of the class went on to two-year colleges while three percent chose other post-secondary schools such as Blaine Hair & Beauty School, Worcester Academy and St. Thomas More School.

No class members joined the military; six entered the work force; and five, three of whom didn't graduate with their class, are undecided.

As part of an independent professional development program for credit, high school guidance counselor Michael Moresco has been conducting a five-year study tracking Lynnfield High graduates who have gone on to college.

The guidance department is also beginning to track the colleges at which students have been accepted - many students apply to approximately five colleges.

--Tewksbury's Three Year Program Plan for Special Education has been completed and is available to Tewksbury residents for review, in the offices of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Christine L. McGrath and Director of Student Services Dr. Michele F. DeAngelis.

The plan covers the school years beginning in 1991 and ending in 1994, and contains descriptions of all special education programs and services provided in and by the Tewksbury Public Schools.

It also contains information on handicapped accessibility of all school facilities, staff development programs for school personnel, programs for parents, program evaluation results, and school system adherence to federal and state special ed' programs and services.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

Folks, about this time of the year, teachers give students report cards so their parents know the progress they are making. I wonder if the readers of Woodchips would write and tell me how I stand? (After any of my family birthday parties, I wonder how my Uncle John stands.) Tell me what you like about my column and "Yes" what you don't like about it. Tell me how I can improve it. (My Aunt Nora just reading that said, "Chipper, send in a 'blank copy'.") Send your letter to me, Kathy or my Aunt Nora at 68 Bosson St., Revere, MA 02151. I promise to answer everyone and I know my Aunt will too!

Would you like to know how I started to write Woodchips? Aunt Nora just said, "No!" I was working at the U.S. Food and Drug Lab on the Winchester/Woburn line. John Taylor (a "Black Man") was the Director. After serving admirably for ten years he was being transferred to a bigger lab. A wonderful lady (the administrative office) asked me to M/C a going-away party for John. This is one of the stories I told, "Kevin, Angelo and John Taylor arrived at the Pearly Gates at the same time. Each one was questioned to determine if each was qualified to enter. Kevin was asked to spell the word "love." "L-O-V-E" replied Kevin and the gates sprung open and Kevin walked in. Angelo was given the same word to spell and he said loud and clear, "L-O-V-E" and he followed Kevin into the glorious sunlight. John Taylor heard all this and was elated that being "black" posed no problem. "John Taylor, you have a word to spell before you can enter," the keeper of the keys intoned. "Yes! Yes! I'm ready," John said. "The word for you to spell is Czechoslovakia." With his lips he spelled that difficult word correctly, but, with his heart, John spelled it "L-O-V-E."

The next day a local paper's ad said, "Part time editorial writer wanted." I sent in almost every joke, quip or pun I said at the going away party for John Taylor and it was published, and that, folks, is how I started to write Woodchips. Oh yes, for those who don't know, I'm now a retired carpenter hence "Woodchips."

George Gould asked Father Dick, "What's arthritis?" "It's a very painful condition, generally caused by excessive drinking. Some experts agree that wine, women and song are contributing factors. Tell me, George," Father Dick said, "how long have you had it?" "Oh, not me Father! I read recently that the bishop has a touch of it!"

Personality Winners: New England Coffee Company's Chief Financial Officer Jim Feeney, Happy 50th Wedding Anniversary John and Regina Ciampa, Rep. James V. DiPaola, Retired Judge John Donnelly and Ed and Susan Markey, all of Malden; Alysa Sluz, Rachel DeFrancisco, Diane T. Perrotti, Anthony and Cheryl Ann Bennett and Alissa Repucci, all of Medford; Erin Dooley, Rachel Fredericks, MacKenzie Silverio, Joe Fife and Jennifer Gray, all of Melrose; Murray and Doris Johnson, Tina Carrabba and Michael Carrabba, all of Billerica; Hope Lancaster, Lori Nicholls, Jennifer DeStefano, Melodie McDonald and Tracey Beck, all of Everett; Bernice and Bill Sullivan, Maureen Lampher, Rev. John Buckley, The Honorable Francis Cullen, Diane Smith and Nancy Murphy, all of Woburn; Patty Williams, Julie Buchanan, The Honorable Judge Louis Gonnella, Tara Juwa and Rev. Francis McGann, all of Winchester; Barbara Hickey, Karen Barry, Rachel Calatorino, Carolyn Massa and Jennifer Pustorino, all of Reading.

Also, Andrea Merva, Melissa Sykes, Rev. Luther P. Durgin, Frank Carley and Leland Preble, all of Burlington; Jennifer Whitworth, Debbie Delcore, Tina Encarnacao, Jen McPhail and Marisa Sheppard, all of Wakefield; Eddie and Ann Flaherty and their lovely daughters, Laura and Erin, Jim and

Diane McCarthy, Paula Fairfield, Mary McLaughlin and Paul Simon, all of Stoneham; Stefanie Tucker, Bella Estrella, Rick Nicole, Darlene McLaughlin, Russell and Brian Moore, all of Wilmington; Michael Gofuen, Charles Ellsworth, Jeff Whitman, Edie Cunningham and Maureen McGum, all of Tewksbury; Atty. Frank Caruso, Guy Festa, Police Chief Paul Romano, Buddy Marino and Wendy Rebidue, all of Lynnfield; John Fogarty, Raymond Turner, Edith O'Leary, Rep. Peter Torkildsen and Alex Nolan, all of North Reading.

I told my new friend, Jim Feeney of New England Coffee Company, about my cousin Eddie McLean, a coffee salesman who petitioned the court for a divorce. It was denied for "insufficient grounds!"...I visited Joseph D'Ambrosio a big game hunter over the holidays. I was amazed to see a stuffed Kodiak Bear in his trophy room. He told me that Frank Anderson and Jake DiGiovanni went hunting in Alaska last year. They started to run like the dickens when they saw the bear begin chasing them. "Wow!" I shouted, "that must have been a frightening experience. By the way, Joe," I asked, "What's this Kodiak Bear stuffed with?" Joe smiled and replied, "Frank Anderson. He couldn't run as fast as Jake DiGiovanni!"

My Aunt Nora is a connoisseur of the arts. She stopped to watch, "Sidewalk Sam" paint in the Boston Common last summer. After about a half an hour she said to the artist, "That's simply beautiful. I wish I could take some of those brilliant colors home with me." "There's no problem, Ma'am," the artist said, "you will - you've been sitting on my paint box!"

My nephew, Dennis Tully, just rushed in to tell me that a 'Haberdashery store' had a holdup. (Now don't blame me folks) but this is what Dennis said. "A pair of suspenders held up a pair of pants."...I asked the pretty clerk in a Medford bakery, "How much is your pound cake?" She smiled and said, "16 ounces." I'm going to introduce her to my nephew Dennis.

It finally happened. The sermon was so long that a poor chap died right in the church pew. The medics were called and they rushed in with a stretcher. Later the medic in charge said to the sexton (after carrying out the sixth person) "Well, we finally got the 'right' one!" Note: the sermon droned on through all that commotion...I said to Kathy, "Why don't you join one of those exercise clubs that are advertised in Middlesex East?" "Why the heck should I?" she snapped, "Well," I replied, "George Bush said 'Read my lips.' (and standing a safe distance away I said) Looking at you, Kathy, I can read your 'hips'!"

I am proud to say that I must have one of the most beautiful letter carriers in the area. Her name is Karol McCue from Woburn. She goes up and down the stairs delivering the mail, then turns like a ballet dancer. God Bless you Karol, it sure is great to be young with vim and vigor.

Woodchips congratulates Robert and Martha Burns on their 32nd Wedding Anniversary. At the reception in their honor, my friend Robert got up holding a glass high saying, "Here's to the best years of my life, which I spent in the arms of another man's wife--my mother!"...Folks, Dr. Walter M. Bortz said, "There is no drug in current or prospective use that holds as much promise as a lifetime of physical exercise, laughter and love."

Dreamboats: Patti Haggerty, Woburn; Debra E. MacCush, Malden; Diane Perrotti, Medford; Debbie Murphy, Saugus; Karol McLaughlin, Reading.

Super Stars: Gladys Mills, North Reading; Dr. Raymondo Haviland Hickey, Medford; Dora M. Hirtle, Wilmington.

"Happy, Healthy and Prosperous New Year to All."

"Sharing is Caring"

Middlesex East Publications, in association with the Salvation Army will sponsor "M.E. Santa" this holiday season to benefit needy individuals and families in the area.

In many past years, the Salvation Army has worked quietly within the communities. But this year it is asking for assistance due to increased pressure to provide services.

Funds will be distributed locally in the M.E. communities, which include Wilmington, Tewksbury, North Reading, Lynnfield, Reading, Stoneham, Burlington, Woburn, Wakefield, Winchester, Malden, Medford and Melrose.

A list of contributors will be published in Middlesex East throughout December.

Corporations and individuals are encouraged to include their names as part of their donations as efforts are made to promote the fund.

The "M.E. Santa" effort is actually part of the Salvation Army's ongoing service program. Please Help!
